The Colorado victims are Mrs. W. O. Northway and Mrs. Rosa Agnew, who answered the newspaper ad said to have been inserted in a Denver paper by the arrested parties.

Earl Wisherd and Frank Mulford decided recently to establish a "bachelor's fishing roost" on the John Minor farm near the 102 river and invited a number of their friends to come out and secure a mess of fish. Will Detmer, the genial Frederick avenue tailor, took a party out there recently in his "Henry" and on the return to town, confidentially told some friends that he was going to eat alone a 4.2 foot bass Wednesday evening that he caught. At Kinnaman's restaurant, a reporter discovered the 4.2 foot bass to be a 7-inch catfish. The same night, Detmer related that Wisherd intends to hire him and his "Henry" to drag the tremendous fish out of the river when the finny tribe are too strong for him. The above statements are Detmer's—for Will knows how to tell fish yarns to himself and—others!
